Nazi Rail Hubs Bombed

Ploesti Oil Centre Hit in Heavy Raid

LONDON, May 31—American heavy bombers and Allied fighters struck at four railway hubs in Northwest Germany today and the great Romanian oil centre of Ploesti, which was attacked by aircraft based in Italy.

Vice-President

The daylight operations, carried out in weather which suddenly became adverse and resulted in Allied air activity, followed a smashing pre-dawn raid on the French invasion coast by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bomber formations, which observers described as the heaviest ever made on the cross channel air line.

The German targets of about 1,750 Fortresses and Liberators, together with Allied fighters, were the Ruhr rail centres of Hamm, Dusseldorf, Scherwe and Soest, and the Luftwaffe base near Muenster in northern France, while about 750 bombers attacked the Ploesti refineries, reporting hits on at least one big refinery in the heart of the Romanian fields, copying the German war machine.

FIRE, DESTRUCTION

Thundering out shortly after midnight, the black winged R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy spread fire and destruction across the Nazi air invasion defences between Boulogne and Cape Gris Nez in a heavy force of 1,750 bombers.

NO PLANES LOST

German night fighters challenged the raiders, but not a single British plane was lost in the attack.

PROFITS SAID SMALL

Such losses were made on a par equivalent to a five per cent discount for a one-year loan repaid in equal monthly instalments.

City Ace Top Scorer Of Pace-Making Unit

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

A CANADIAN AIRFIELD IN BRITAIN, May 31.—(CP)—Canada's ace intruder pilot, 23-year-old Flying Officer J. T. (Johnny) Caine, D.F.C., of South Edmonton, is a self-made man, affable and unaffected.

Leading scorer in the R.C.A.F.'s City or Edmonton Mosquito squadron, itself the pace-making unit in Air Defence of Great Britain with 120% enemy aircraft destroyed since Jan. 1—he has accounted for 17, eight in the air and nine on the ground, and has damaged another five.

His record is almost up to that of a former squadron mate, Sgt. Ldr. Charlie Scherz, D.F.C. and Bar, of Glen Elgin, New South Wales, who intruded on the night of May 14 in the air and eight on the ground.

JOYFUL VETERAN
Caine calls himself "an old man." Young though he is, it is a man's life he has been through.

He has reached grand old age when he had to leave school in 1937. His father, Harry L. Caine, had fallen ill and could look after the farm.

National Importance

Saskatchewan Vote Will Affect Federal Election

EDMONTON, May 31.—(CP)—The three political parties contesting the Saskatchewan general elections, are now working in high gear.

Many people thought the elections would be confined to a knock-down, draw-out fight between the Liberals and the Progressive Conservative Party, but the national importance of the election has complicated the picture.

The Progressive Conservatives, with unlimited money, will have candidates in practically every provincial riding, and they are putting up a whirlwind campaign.

FARMER VOTE DECIDES
Mr. Bracken has spoken in all parts of the province and the new Progressive Conservative Party leader, Mr. Ramsey, is concentrating on winning the farmer vote.

Whoever gets the majority of the farmer vote will win the election as Saskatchewan is predominantly rural.

Premier W. J. Patterson is in the campaign by the Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, and a former premier of Saskatchewan.

Canada's Casualties
SAID HIGH IN ITALY
SYDNEY, Australia, May 31.—(CP)—Lt.-Col. L. M. Cosgrave, military attaché to the Canadian High Commission in Rome, said today on his return from Canada that the Canadian casualties in the beginning of the year have been high in Italy and in the air war.

Despite this, Canada's war effort has been heavy, Canada's war effort has been heavy, Canada's war effort has been heavy.

CHUNGKING, May 31.—Civilian evacuation in Changsha, capital of Hunan Province, as Japanese troops in a rapid advance along the Tung Tung Lake front approached within 30 miles of the city today in a full-scale attempt to split China and forestall an Allied landing on the southeast China coast.

The main column of an enemy force of approximately 150,000 troops reached the south shore of the Mito River, a tributary of Tung Tung Lake. The river crossing was made on a narrow bridge. Another column pushed southward from the bridge, reaching the city of Changsha.

The Japanese are now advancing from Yangtze, to the south, to the north, to the east, to the west, to the south, to the north, to the east, to the west.

Eighth Army at Outskirts Of Key Highway Junction

NAPLES, May 31.—Canadian and United Kingdom troops of the Eighth Army, driving into the rear of retreating German divisions trying to escape Allied entrapment, reached the outskirts of Frosinone today while British and American troops of the Fifth Army fought forward in violent combat all along the 27-mile Valmontone-Jemini line.

As the Fifth Army shifted the weight of its offensive to the western half of the front below Rome, British troops pushed forward through dense minefields to capture L'Americano, 10 miles below the mouth of the Tiber and also seized Ardea, to drive a spearhead within 15 miles or less of the Italian capital.

British Third Army correspondents Reynolds Packard reported that the Eighth Army had reached the outskirts of Frosinone and was slugging it out in a tank and infantry battle on the slopes of the Alban hills. Packard said American armor units had passed contact with the German divisions.

The advances carried deep into the Valmontone-Camp Jemini line. The last defence held below Rome, but Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, allied commander in Italy, warned in his daily communiqué.

"It is now evident that the enemy intends to hold this line at all costs."

Radio Berlin said the battle had reached the "Gates of Rome" and CBS broadcast from Madrid reported some Germans already were evacuating the capital after a Berlin dispatch published in Stockholm said "heavy fighting" raged inside both Velletri and Ardea, the two main strongholds in the German line.

As the battle for Rome moved into its climactic phase, the British Eighth Army was driving swiftly forward, maintaining contact with the retreating German army along its front.

The Canadian tanks, leading the attack on Frosinone, were closing in on the strategic junction of the Tiber and the Liri, May 31, Col. 4.

Two New Fires Cause Trouble In North Areas

Two new fires, both of them small, have been reported from the Smoke River section of Grande Prairie, according to Edmonton forestry officials Wednesday.

The fires, now being battled by crews rushed in from forestry stations in the area, were reported by a patrolman here by Wireless, Commander H. J. Winny, O.B.E., of the R.C.A.F. Northwest Siding Route.

In the meantime, T. F. Bligh, provincial forestry director, has received reports of a general rainfall through the whole north area.

"Quite a bit fell during the night in the Grande Prairie and Peace River area," Mr. Bligh said. It also fell in the Fairview district, where it was needed badly.

"The rain should assist greatly in getting the fire under control. It will be to general, and as reported from all lookout stations in the north, except at Lovett."

Premier King Sees Forecast Of His Future

OTTAWA, May 31.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, introducing Prime Minister John Diefenbaker at a press conference today found something to say about the political future of his own government in what has happened in other Commonwealth countries.

He recalled the London conference of prime ministers held after the outbreak of the war, which included general elections in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa where the governments "were all successfully re-elected."

"I hope that prophetic of what will happen for the future," he said. "And then he joined in the laughter of newsmen."

Permit Newsmen At London Parley To Leave Britain

LONDON, May 31.—(CP)—Canada correspondents who came to Britain to cover the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference will be allowed to depart under an emergency clause in the travel ban which has barred newsmen.

This clause permits travel for "business of urgent national importance" which cannot be postponed.

The government understood that Prime Minister Mackenzie King personally asked the British government after the conference to permit the Canadian press to leave.

May 16, that the newspapers be given every consideration. Their departure was arranged shortly afterwards.

Retires

ly far ranch. When Johnny took over everything they had was most good.

"I got things into shape in a few years and since then dad's always thought a few more 'I guess,' he smiled modestly, recalling the news he had received a few days before that his father had said for him a lot of mink skins, new suits and such thrilled him more than another victory over the Luftwaffe.

When the war came along and Johnny had things in shape at the ranch, he got the urge to fly. His dad and three brothers, 15-year-old Jim, 14-year-old Bob and 12-year-old Al, all took over the farm. He didn't possess the educational qualifications for the air force but he took the Canadian Legion educational course. In 12 months he picked up enough to qualify for grade 11 entrance and he was able to get through.

ENLISTED IN 1941
He enlisted in December, 1941, and trained in Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Virden, Man. and Yorkton, Sask. He arrived overseas in January, 1943, completed his training here and joined the City of Edmonton squadron last October.

One of the successful flights he and his 22-year-old navigator, PO, Earl Boal, D.F.C., of Regina, made were voluntary efforts on the side of their regular intruder work of patrolling over enemy bases and attacking German aircraft returning from raids over Britain.

He said of the credit for his success came said belonged to his squadron. "You talk about success, but it takes two," he said. "You won't get anywhere if you haven't a good observer. And I have got one."

John said it was more difficult to destroy an aircraft on the ground than in the air.

NEAR END FIRST TOUR
"I like to about them down out of the air, but I see a kite on the ground. I'm not going to miss a chance to 'prang' it," he said. "If they won't come up and fight we'll go down and get them there."

Johnny is nearing the end of his first tour and by his own standards should reach the score of 20 he thinks it is possible for every intruder pilot to get. He admitted "You've got to have a lot of luck to get that many and I have had a lot of luck."

When his tour is over he would like to convert to single-engine, long-range Mustangs, "but testing jet-propelled aircraft is what I would like, I really would."

He has no post-war flying ambitions. When it's all over, it's back to the ranch for him.

"I'll definitely have a ranch of my own," he said. "I'd like to be my own boss and pull down a big pay cheque every 'Chickamauch'."

was not as well prepared to discuss European questions as Canada or Britain.

On the other hand, Australia and New Zealand possibly knew more about Pacific affairs, he said. He indicated this meant that some delegates to an Empire conference might approach various problems on the agenda with the knowledge of the subjects they were to discuss.

He also described how Australia had sent every piece of war equipment available to Britain and the middle east after Dunkirk, completely demanding herself.

COUNTRY STRIPPED

"He said that when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Australia did not have one trained soldier at home, and did not have one fighter plane in the air."

He said Australians had decided that their country must be held as the base for future action against the Japs and as a terminal of supplies for the Allies.

"There was the most complete collaboration in all the arrangements which brought United Nations troops to Australia and made Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Allied commander—and I emphasize he was Allied commander and chosen by the United Nations," he said.

He added he did not want to make any invidious comparisons, but "for a long time" Australians made up the greater part of the land and air forces in the Pacific area and he said it was only recently that the United States Air force had increased to greater strength.

In the middle of last year, we began to see results," he continued.

Via Cassinale and another route of escape for Marshal Kesselring's hard pressed army which loops to the north and west.

East of Frosinone, United Kingdom units driving through the hills above the Via Cassinale toward the town of Cassin, 10 miles from Frosinone, New Zealanders advanced to within two miles of Rome on the high highway running from Arce to Frosinone.

Fontana, Stranagallo, Amara and Alfedena, all in high ground overlooking the Cassin, also fell to the Eighth Army.

FRENCH JOIN EIGHTH

Acknowledged that Moroccan troops, French elements of the Fifth Army joined the Eighth in converging on Frosinone.

The French captured Ceccano, five miles south of Frosinone, where Moroccan Goums pushed on ahead and seized Capineto, 14 miles west of Frosinone, and adjacent high ground.

A German communiqué acknowledged that Moroccan troops had penetrated Nazi lines and reached Capineto.

On the fifth day of the front, British and American infantry, southwest of Genua were forced to use bayonets and grenades to rout German troops stubbornly resisting attacks.

Troops and tanks assaulting Lanuvio entered the outskirts of Villa Crocetta, a cluster of ruined buildings just outside the town.

The town was a key point on the Valmontone end of the line, apart from an official spokesman's statement that the Germans were resisting fiercely along the whole front from below Rome.

German casualties mounted heavily. Best estimates placed the number of soldiers killed at 10,000, wounded or captured at 40,000 since the offensive began three weeks ago Thursday night.

Opposes Plan For Unclaimed Bank Deposits

The bank contested the order, and the Dominion Attorney-General, Innes, said the government's plan was "unjust and illegal."

MANY ISSUES INVOLVED

The Quebec branch said the proposed federal legislation contained in a bill amending The Bank Act, should not be passed until the various issues involved were clarified.

"The mere change in the physical location of sites of these deposits from the various banks might, if the present text remains unchanged, affect the rights of depositors and their estates as time would pass; questions of court jurisdiction, of the rights of depositors and the possibility of duplication and replication of all succession matters," said the branch.

"It is felt that the proposed legislation is not intended to bring about new results, but it is submitted that without some clarifying clause there is a real danger of future complications," said the branch.

The clarifying clause should say that notwithstanding any transfer of deposits to the Bank of Canada they should be considered for all legal purposes as remaining situated within the province where the deposit was originally made until such time as the depositors, his estate, legal successor or representative asserted his right and took over.

The government spokesman expressed confidence, however, that the Chinese ground forces will be able to halt the Japanese thrust if adequate air support can be brought into the battle.

The Chinese communiqué reported strong Japanese reinforcements crossing the Yangtze river and said bitter fighting was in progress on the northeastern and northwestern approaches to Changsha, with both sides suffering heavy casualties.

Sask. Result Will Affect Federal Vote

But Federal issues are bound to play a big part in deciding the election.

The loss of the election by the Liberals would mean the elimination of Hon. James G. Gardiner as a political power. This fact is realized by Mr. Gardiner as well as by Mr. Bracken, while the fact that both these gentlemen are throwing everything they have into the provincial contest as their political careers are at stake.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE

Acknowledged that the outcome of the C.C.F. believes the outcome of the provincial contest will mean his success or failure in the coming Dominion elections. Most political observers agree.

If the C.C.F. wins Saskatchewan it will mean that the federal government will be controlled largely by the Liberals and the C.C.F. with the Progressive Conservatives a factor.

With so much at stake it can be readily realized why the Saskatchewan election has taken on a national importance. The mystery of this election is why the Social Credit Party has failed to take part in the previous election held on June 8, 1939.

STANDING IN HOUSE

The standing in the provincial legislature when L. Gov. A. P. McEwen dissolved it on May 10 was: Liberals 22, C.C.F. 12, Social Credit 1, and Progressive Conservative 6, vacant 1, total 32.

At the last election the Liberals polled 20,379 out of a total of 40,273 votes cast and elected 38 members. Thus with 45 percent of the vote they gained 73 percent of the seats in the house.

19 PERCENT

The C.C.F. polled 8,258 votes, which was 19 percent of the popular vote and elected 10 members, or just about 19 percent of the membership of the house. At last session of the legislature H. K. Warren, the Unity member, moved over and sat with the C.C.F.

The Social Credit Party finished third with nearly 20,000 votes and elected two members. A total of 23,238 were polled by the Conservatives but the party failed to gain one seat in the legislature.

Former Adjutant Draws 3 Months

Andrew Menzies, former adjutant of the Canadian Corps, was sentenced by the court-martial at the Canadian War Crimes Commission, Edmonton, to three months in the district court Wednesday to serve the month of the sentence charges of converting to his own use approximately $200 the property of the corps. The sentence will run concurrently.

Menzies was found guilty earlier in the month on a charge of converting to his own use $200 paid by the Edmonton Exhibition Association as wages for members of the corps in the 1942 summer fair. After the corps' verdict, guilty pleas were entered in two other charges.

When found guilty a demand for punishment was made in enabling Menzies to make restitution. The court was informed that restitution had not been made, but it was limited that the corps was not to be paid for payment of the money converted by the accused.

City Man Guilty Of Masquerading As Air Officer

VICTORIA, May 31.—(CP)—James Francis Dennis Fleming, 26, of Portland, Ore., pleaded guilty in police court here yesterday to charges of masquerading in the uniform of a flight lieutenant of the Royal Canadian Air Force and wearing the ribbons of the Distinguished Flying Cross and British Africa Star, to which he was not entitled.

Fleming told the court he had been a member of the U.S. coast artillery for three months but had not been overseas.

Fleming was apprehended Monday by R.C.A.F. service police. He had a birth certificate in his possession, showing he was born in Edmonton, Alta.

Magistrate Hall remanded Fleming to Wednesday for sentence.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPING

Camping movement had its birth in 1881, when Ernest Bach took a group of boys camping in New Hampshire.

At that time he had no idea that he would be the father of a movement which would be a worldwide in scope. For years later, Sumner F. Dudley led the way of the Y.M.C.A. into the realm of organized camping. The camp he organized became Camp Dudley after his death and is the oldest organized camp in the country.

The first Canadian Y.M.C.A. Camp was organized by the Y.M.C.A. Committee of the Maritime Provinces and was held at Chatham Harbor, N.S. in 1889.

Camping has become an integral part of the program of most Y.M.C.A.s. In the early days, camping programs were carried on, largely with boys, however, as camping developed, young men and men were enrolled in its program. Camping appeals to boys for a variety of reasons. To most boys camping opportunity means fun, adventure, opportunity for achievement, a place where the pangs of, craft activities, water sports, fishing, a chance to get a good rest and away from home and school routine.

As the Y.M.C.A. celebrates its 100th year in Association wide camping holds a major spot. Edmonton and Calgary sponsored a joint camp for young men holding a major spot. This year, camp will operate from July 17 to Aug. 21.

Champion of Monetary Reform to Abandon Politics

No wonder Mr. McGeer despaired of political action in the field of monetary reform.

However, even in the face of this despair it would still be possible to give leadership to the world away from debt, depression and recurring periods of war, even by action in this present session of the Canadian parliament. But one more Liberal crusader has become discouraged. Mr. McGeer is retiring.

Removing Spots

Clothes will stay fresh looking without too frequent trips to the cleaners if you will brush them well, press them regularly and keep them free from spots. Here are a few rules for spot removal:

Know the nature of the fabric and the spot. Use the mildest treatment first and act promptly. Stains become "set" and are then more difficult to remove.

The principal removal agent for a water-borne spot such as fruit syrups, etc., is water.

Poultry Prices Are Protested; Rap Inspectors

OTTAWA, May 31.—(CP)—Farmers selling poultry in "rap" because of Prices Board inspectors and "information" regulations which were laid down by "while collared boys who were never in the poultry business," opposition members said yesterday in the Commons.

With a finance department appropriation of $155,000, for Prices Board administration before it, the house debated board regulations throughout the afternoon.

G. J. Tuttle (P.C., Prince Edward-Lennox) said that when ungraded poultry was sold at a poultry fair at Nanapan, Ont., Prices Board inspectors prevented farmers from receiving higher prices for better quality birds.

FARMERS "ROBBERED"
"My contention is that the farmers were robbed of from seven to eight cents a pound, due to the fact in which the Prices Board handled the situation," he said.

Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Hiley, said that before Christmas last year there was a tendency on the part of some buyers to push the price "without too much regard for the price of the bird" and the enforcement division was instructed to keep on the watch for such activities.

Ceilings on the producer, wholesale and retail prices of poultry were maintained. The board had nothing to do with establishing the grades of dressed poultry.

Hon. J. B. Hanton (P.C.-York-Simcoe) said that "while collared boys" in Ottawa laid regulations covering the poultry business without knowing how they would affect the producer and consumer.

ARMY OF INSPECTORS
Opening the discussion of prices board regulations, Mr. Hanton said that practically an "army" of board inspectors appeared at the Nanapan poultry fair last December.

Their operations had resulted in farmers receiving less for their poultry than they should, he said.

The inspectors placed blackboards on the market square saying what selling prices should be. The poultry had not been graded and the producers were forced to sell at the ungraded price.

Mr. Tuttle said he believed it was unfair that there should be a spread of 12 cents a pound between the price paid to producers and that paid by the consumer.

Answering William Bryce (C.P.C., Selkirk), Mr. Abbott said the grading of poultry was undertaken by the agriculture department, not the prices board.

NO PROTECTION
Mr. Bryce said there was no protection against a grade being raised after poultry was purchased from the farmer.

Mr. Abbott said that raising a grade was a serious matter and that "ungraded poultry represents a happy hunting ground for private enterprise," said Mr. Bryce.

Evaporated Milk
Ration Continued

OTTAWA, May 31.—(CP)—Priority sales of evaporated milk and coupon must continue in restricted areas—those districts in which supplies of fresh milk are adequate to meet all necessary needs.

The prices board said last night in announcing the discontinuance of the use of coupons in other than restricted areas after June 1.

The board said most areas of Ontario and Quebec, except the northern portions, are classified as restricted areas, together with larger towns and cities of the four western provinces.

At the beginning of May the board announced a new type of evaporated milk coupon to replace the "C" coupon. On and after June 1 all "C" coupons in the hands of consumers will be invalid.

Before further purchases can be made in restricted areas a consumer possessing an evaporated milk card with "C" coupons attached must exchange it at his local ration board office for a card of the new evaporated milk coupons.

United States Drafts World Security Plan

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(CP)—President Roosevelt said yesterday that the United States was proceeding on the 1941 pattern in the drafting of the plan for the United States for post-war peace machinery in an organization in any shape, manner or form.

A complete draft plan for post-war security against future conflicts, with definite objectives and a program of action, is being prepared, has been prepared for submission to Britain, Russia and China, the President told a press conference.

INVITE DISCUSSIONS
Mr. Roosevelt brought up the subject after State Secretary Cordell Hull invited Britain, Russia and China to discuss the plan here—possibly the foreign ministers—for the first major discussion in 25 years on the organization of the world.

to realize with relief that I live in a country where things are sane and stable... where the cost of living has been kept within bounds.

to realize that prices and wages—production costs and selling prices—are inseparably linked together.

to remind myself that the danger is still pressing and that we must continue to hold firm... and that means everybody must play fair and do his part by not trying to get some temporary, fancied advantage at the expense of his fellow-Canadians.

to realize that without the safeguards that have headed off inflation, my nightmare might have become a reality!
